Antioch Firemen Help Battle $1 Million Fire At Zion Store District

Attend Funeral of Chief R. Burleigh, Fox Lake Fire Victim

Antioch's fire department was one of the many Lake and Kenosha county companies that helped battle the $1 million fire at Zion Saturday.

The blaze started at 7:50 p. m. and within a short time razed the big frame Zion department store on the west side of Sheridan road, gutted the Spee-Dee and damaged the McEwen Electrical and Appliance store, the D. A. Young Radio shop, the Blumberg Furniture store, and did damage to windows of several other places.

Police Chief Walter Scott got the call for help through his police radio and notified Fire Chief Edgar Simonsen who took eight men and a pumper truck and went to the scene of the blaze, arriving there at 8:30 p. m.

Ambulance Bearing Woman Crashes into Car at Rts. 173-59

A collision of an ambulance from the Fox Lake Funeral Home and a car driven by Jerry Healy, Beach Grove rd., at the intersection of Rtes. 173 and 59 at 7 p. m. Sunday resulted in slight injury to Healy and damage to both vehicles.

The ambulance was taking Mrs. Mattie Grammer, a medical patient, to St. Therese hospital at the time and it was necessary to use the Antioch Rescue Squad truck in taking her to her destination. Mrs. Grammer lives a half mile west of Antioch.

Chief of Police Walter Scott said that Healy and two companions, Dick Huml and Harry Lindgren, all high school youths, were driving south on Rte. 59 which is an arterial highway.

The ambulance driven by James Gallagher was going east and according to Scott it ran into the Healy car.

Young Healy said he did not see any flasher light from the ambulance or hear a siren.

The boys were told to be accompanied by their parents when they appear in Police Magistrate's court next Tuesday to talk over the accident. They were not charged.

Healy received slight abrasions and were treated by a local physician.

Definite Programs Are Planned for Lions Club By Larson, and Dittman

Definite programs for each meeting of the Lions club were announced Monday evening by President T. C. Larson and Program Co-ordinator Albert Dittman following the dinner at Smart's Country House.

The program this past week was a sound colored film entitled "Out of the North" which depicted and described the migration of wild fowl. It was an excellent portrayal which the sportsmen in the club enjoyed very much. The film was supplied by the local Nash Dealers.

The program for Feb. 22 has been planned by Lion member George Hawkins. Hawkins has arranged to have Speaker Charles E. Alexander present a topic to the club. Mr. Alexander is general sales manager for the Illinois Farm Supply Company.

Irving Carey reported that final arrangements have been made for the Annual High School Athletic Banquet are being planned for the year and Lion members are encouraged to attend the two meetings each month so that they can enjoy these excellent programs.

Four-Way Tie for 1st Place May Result Tonight in League Play

There is a possibility that Antioch High now in a three-way tie for second place in Northwest Conference basketball competition, may be in a four-way tie for first place tomorrow.

It all depends on: A Sequoit victory over Bensenville there tonight.

A victory by Palatine over the conference-leading Grant Bulldogs at Palatine and a Waukegan victory over Grayslake at Grayslake.

But there have been many uprisings among the second division teams, and Antioch will have to watch its step at Bensenville. Anything can happen at Grayslake.

Eyes of the conference are turned, however, to Palatine where Grant is pitted against the onrushing Pilgrims, who are but a game behind the Bulldogs.

County Wide Chorus To Sing The Messiah; Seek Local Vocalists

Antioch and Lake Villa choir members and vocalists in general have been invited to join a county-wide choir in singing the great Christian oratorio, "The Messiah."

The next rehearsal will be at 3 p. m. Sunday at the Community Protestant church in Mundelein.

The program will be presented at some central location during the Easter season.

The steering committee of the chorus headed by William Tinlin of Grayslake and including members from each village represented, is asking for more personnel, especially tenors of whom there is a scarcity. High School students may participate.

"The success of the venture," he said, "will depend upon balancing that section with the rest of the inspiring group."

The Rev. Stephen Liddicoat of Grayslake, who has directed the Messiah a number of times, will direct this chorus. Mrs. George Lockwood of Diamond Lake, will accompany at the organ and C. B. Whitaker of Libertyville will be at the piano.

All that is necessary for the person to join the chorus is to appear at practice.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Corporation Again In Charge of Legion Home

The Antioch Legion Home, Inc., an organization that originated and controlled the Legion Home at 748 Ida ave. has again taken over the property.

A few years ago the Legion post members expressed a desire to operate the home and took it over, but they were unable to make a financial success of the venture, and were willing for the corporation to take control again. This was done on Feb. 4.

The American Legion Home, Inc. board of directors and officers are: F. A. Swenson, president; John L. Horan, secretary; Edward J. Frazier, treasurer; Harry A. Mizock, Paul Erickson, William E. Brook, Daniel Lightsey, Benjamin Miller, and John L. Horan.

Income of the home is said to be limited to rental from a church group which used the place on Sunday and this rental is insufficient to pay cost of upkeep. At one time the post attempted to operate a bar, but this didn't pay costs.

Blue Cross, Blue Shield Membership Campaign Opens; to End Mar. 1

A program to extend the benefits of Blue Cross and Blue Shield membership to more Lake county rural and small town residents was outlined at a meeting of civic and farm leaders at the Rustic Manor in Gurnee Tuesday noon, Feb. 9.

Tuesday's meeting served as a final planning session for another enrollment in Blue Cross Plan for Hospital Care and Blue Shield Medical-Surgical Plan under the sponsorship of the Lake County Health Improvement association. The enrollment opened on Thursday, and will continue through March 1. It was attended by volunteer workers from throughout the county and HIA, Blue Cross and Blue Shield officials.

Over 3,600 Lake county residents already enjoy Blue Cross protection through the HIA, with over 1,500 of them also enrolled in Blue Shield. The success of the program since its introduction here in 1949 has been so outstanding in terms of benefits received by members that arrangements were made by the HIA to offer Blue Cross and Blue Shield once again so those who have not previously joined will have another opportunity to do so.

Membership is open to farmers and residents of towns of less than 5,000 population who are under 60 years old and are self-employed or work in a group of less than five persons. All HIA members who are Blue Cross members may also join the Blue Shield Plan during the current enrollment.

Membership in the nonprofit health service plan may be obtained through the Farm Bureau at Grayslake, Bettie Berger, R. N., at Dr. A. N. Burke's office, Mrs. Curtis Wells, ph. Extremes Are Dangerous

It is perfectly reasonable that labor should wish to get the largest possible reward, in money and other benefits, for its work. But extreme demands, if granted, could be so damaging to business that there would be fewer and fewer jobs, fewer and fewer pay envelopes—and hard times within labor's ranks.

An outstanding example is found in the current demands being made on the nation's railroads by non-operating unions, representing about 1,000,000 rail workers not engaged in the actual operation of trains. These demands go far beyond disputes as to wages, and include free life insurance equal to a year's pay; free hospital, medical and surgical care for themselves and all dependents; free transportation for all employees and all their dependents on all trains on all railroads; more paid vacations and holidays; triple pay for work on holidays, etc.

If these unions' demands were granted to all railroad employees—and certainly if one group got them the rest would naturally expect them, too—railroad operating costs would go up by $1,000,000,000 a year, which is almost double the net income the industry now expects to earn in 1954.

It is futile to argue that so huge a sum could be raised by increasing the rates railroads charge. Even if the regulatory authorities would approve the enormous jump, the railroads must operate in competition with other commercial carriers, and private automobiles and trucks. There is a point of diminishing return in the prices any business can charge, beyond which people quit patronizing it. Would that benefit labor?

Don't Sit on a Cactus

A spokesman for an oil company recently said that his industry "... long ago learned that he who tries to rest on his laurels is likely instead to sit on a cactus."

He went on to observe, "Oil men have never been satisfied just because something was good. They have wanted it to be even better, and they have worked to make it better through research." His own company alone spent about $14,000,000 in research last year, and the figure for the industry as a whole was probably well over $100,000,000.

We read much of oil's achievements. In 1953, for instance, all kinds of new records were established—in the number of wells drilled, in crude production, in refinery runs, in public demand, and so on. But these achievements are not limited to matters of mere quantity. Quality is given equal attention and it certainly is equally important from the consumer's viewpoint. The gasolines, greases, chemicals and all the other products which are derived from oil are far better now than they used to be—and research is responsible.

Finally, the thing that forces oil companies to carry on all this costly research is competition. Every company must keep up with the march of progress or watch its trade go elsewhere.

Everybody Wants "Low Cost" Power

A high geared propaganda campaign is under way in an effort to convince the public that the Interior Department's present electric power program amounts to a ruthless giveaway of natural resources—and that great states and regions will suffer enormous damage. A typical charge in the Pacific Northwest now is that Interior is about to scuttle the past "low-cost" power policy, and bring on industrial stagnation and widespread unemployment.

Only those who lack access to the facts will believe this. Nobody is opposed to "low-cost" power. Everybody is for it. All Interior is doing is, on the other hand, to attempt to make government-power come nearer to paying its own way, with smaller subsidies from all the taxpayers—and, on the other, to encourage power development by private enterprise and thus to create large new sources of tax revenue. To that end, Interior has withdrawn objections to private construction which blocked needed power development for years on rivers in all parts of the nation.

There is probably a great deal of misunderstanding—much of it deliberately fomented—as to the importance of the cost of electricity. In practically all homes, it is one of the smallest cost-of-living items. With a few exceptions, it is also one of the smallest overhead costs in business and industry. That is also true of agriculture. And private power is sold at rates which are determined by public service bodies—rates which cover necessary operating expenses plus a profit of about six per cent. Interior's position is in the interest of everyone in the country, except those who want socialism.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

This is to be a lecture on thrift and will power. And will power is the keystone. Without determination you are sunk. Like when you say you will quit smoking, and in two days you are back at it—or like mama will say, "no more cake" as she has a little struggle and tussle with the girdle. Now if you choose to be a person of distinction, to have individuality, to be no less important than any other person, pay heed.

A gentleman of high esteem that I used to visit on occasion in San Francisco had a test he applied to see how his vertebrae was stacking up—if he was slipping or holding his own. He was a character—a distinctive one—you listened when he talked. He was a banker—a big one—he had started as office boy. He liked his pipe. Here was his test for will power. He filled his pipe, laid a match alongside, went to work. For two weeks he would do this. He knew then—when the pipe went untouched—that he was himself, in fettle, sure of himself.

Our U. S. A. congress and a 1000 or 2000 mayors and 48 governors—all of 'em saying they are for thriftiness in government behavior, should fill their pipe and put a match alongside. DETERMINATION to get the U. S. A. out of its floating around in a barrel of red ink is the prime job. To be a 100 per cent People's Choice next autumn will require—sure as shootin'—some political vertebrae this spring and summer.

Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA

Extremes Are Dangerous

It is perfectly reasonable that labor should wish to get the largest possible reward, in money and other benefits, for its work. But extreme demands, if granted, could be so damaging to business that there would be fewer and fewer jobs, fewer and fewer pay envelopes—and hard times within labor's ranks.

An outstanding example is found in the current demands being made on the nation's railroads by non-operating unions, representing about 1,000,000 rail workers not engaged in the actual operation of trains. These demands go far beyond disputes as to wages, and include free life insurance equal to a year's pay; free hospital, medical and surgical care for themselves and all dependents; free transportation for all employees and all their dependents on all trains on all railroads; more paid vacations and holidays; triple pay for work on holidays, etc.

If these unions' demands were granted to all railroad employees—and certainly if one group got them the rest would naturally expect them, too—railroad operating costs would go up by $1,000,000,000 a year, which is almost double the net income the industry now expects to earn in 1954.

It is futile to argue that so huge a sum could be raised by increasing the rates railroads charge. Even if the regulatory authorities would approve the enormous jump, the railroads must operate in competition with other commercial carriers, and private automobiles and trucks. There is a point of diminishing return in the prices any business can charge, beyond which people quit patronizing it. Would that benefit labor?

Don't Sit on a Cactus

A spokesman for an oil company recently said that his industry "... long ago learned that he who tries to rest on his laurels is likely instead to sit on a cactus."

He went on to observe, "Oil men have never been satisfied just because something was good. They have wanted it to be even better, and they have worked to make it better through research." His own company alone spent about $14,000,000 in research last year, and the figure for the industry as a whole was probably well over $100,000,000.

We read much of oil's achievements. In 1953, for instance, all kinds of new records were established—in the number of wells drilled, in crude production, in refinery runs, in public demand, and so on. But these achievements are not limited to matters of mere quantity. Quality is given equal attention and it certainly is equally important from the consumer's viewpoint. The gasoline, greases, chemicals and all the other products which are derived from oil are far better now than they used to be—and research is responsible.

Finally, the thing that forces oil companies to carry on all this costly research is competition. Every company must keep up with the march of progress or watch its trade go elsewhere.

Everybody Wants "Low Cost" Power

A high geared propaganda campaign is under way in an effort to convince the public that the Interior Department's present electric power program amounts to a ruthless giveaway of natural resources—and that great states and regions will suffer enormous damage. A typical charge in the Pacific Northwest now is that Interior is about to scuttle the past "low-cost" power policy, and bring on industrial stagnation and widespread unemployment.

Only those who lack access to the facts will believe this. Nobody is opposed to "low-cost" power. Everybody is for it. All Interior is doing is, on the other hand, to attempt to make government-power come nearer to paying its own way, with smaller subsidies from all the taxpayers—and, on the other, to encourage power development by private enterprise and thus to create large new sources of tax revenue. To that end, Interior has withdrawn objections to private construction which blocked needed power development for years on rivers in all parts of the nation.

There is probably a great deal of misunderstanding—much of it deliberately fomented—as to the importance of the cost of electricity. In practically all homes, it is one of the smallest cost-of-living items. With a few exceptions, it is also one of the smallest overhead costs in business and industry. That is also true of agriculture. And private power is sold at rates which are determined by public service bodies—rates which cover necessary operating expenses plus a profit of about six per cent. Interior's position is in the interest of everyone in the country, except those who want socialism.

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

This is to be a lecture on thrift and will power. And will power is the keystone. Without determination you are sunk. Like when you say you will quit smoking, and in two days you are back at it—or like mama will say, "no more cake" as she has a little struggle and tussle with the girdle. Now if you choose to be a person of distinction, to have individuality, to be no less important than any other person, pay heed.

A gentleman of high esteem that I used to visit on occasion in San Francisco had a test he applied to see how his vertebrae was stacking up—if he was slipping or holding his own. He was a character—a distinctive one—you listened when he talked. He was a banker—a big one—he had started as office boy. He liked his pipe. Here was his test for will power. He filled his pipe, laid a match alongside, went to work. For two weeks he would do this. He knew then—when the pipe went untouched—that he was himself, in fettle, sure of himself.

Our U. S. A. congress and a 1000 or 2000 mayors and 48 governors—all of 'em saying they are for thriftiness in government behavior, should fill their pipe and put a match alongside. DETERMINATION to get the U. S. A. out of its floating around in a barrel of red ink is the prime job. To be a 100 per cent People's Choice next autumn will require—sure as shootin'—some political vertebrae this spring and summer.

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA

Library Science Class At Central High Goes To Milwaukee Libraries

The library science class of Central High School, Salem, Wis., enjoyed the privilege of seeing at first hand the various operations in the field of library service when they recently visited the Central Public Library and Book Bindery in Milwaukee, the recently completed modern library building of Marquette University, and the ultra-modern, newly constructed Finney Neighborhood Library, also in Milwaukee.

The tour of the Central City library and the book bindery was arranged by Mr. Meredith Bloss, assistant librarian of Milwaukee Central City library. Immediately upon arrival at 9:30 a. m. on Wednesday, Mr. Bloss met with the class and gave a general talk about library facilities offered to the public by the Central Library and its seventeen branch libraries.

The group was then escorted through the book bindery by the plant superintendent who explained all the operations in the various processes of book binding.

From there the group went to the Central City Library where one of the staff members guided it throughout the various departments and explained the functions of each.

After having had lunch at the Holloway House cafeteria, the group then proceeded to the beautiful library building of Marquette University, the construction of which was completed last year. Miss Ruth Dempsey, director of the university library, welcomed the group and took them on a tour of the building explaining the facilities of each department for giving best library service possible to students and student groups.

After completing the university library tour, the next stop was at the ultra-modern Finney Neighborhood Library on the outskirts of Milwaukee. Miss Dixon, chief librarian, met the group and took them on tour of the various departments explaining the purpose of each and the services offered to the public.

The library science class members were much impressed with the wide range of library services and facilities which they had the opportunity to view at first hand. They appreciate the friendly hospitality with which they were accorded in each of the places they visited, and especially are they grateful for being given the opportunity for a most pleasant and beneficial experience in the field of library service.

PREPARE YOUR RETURN NOW

"Begin preparing your income tax return when you get your Form W-2 from your employer." That is the advice of Ernest J. Sauber, District Director of Internal Revenue.

Any taxpayer who worked for more than one employer during 1953, must receive a Form W-2 from each employer who withheld Federal income tax from his wages or who would have withheld tax if the employee had claimed only one withholding exemption. All W-2 forms must be attached to one's income tax return, which must be mailed to the District Director of Internal Revenue by midnight of March 15.

"Salaried persons cannot file their income tax returns until they receive all their W-2 forms," Mr. Sauber said, "but when they are in the taxpayer's hands, the taxpayer should prepare his return and mail it in well before March 15."

Prospectors

The uranium search has attracted hundreds of lone-wolf prospectors, some amateur, some professional. However, modern prospecting for the most part requires a considerable bankroll, irrespective of whether Uncle Sam picks up part of the check. Best equipped to do this type of job of course are the mineral industries firms which long have maintained exploration and development programs.

Livestock Management Meeting at Grayslake On Thursday, Feb. 18

A livestock feeding and management meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 18, according to Ray T. Nicholas, Farm Adviser.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion hall in Grayslake, starting at 11 a. m. The forenoon session will include a discussion of various electrical equipment by engineers of the Public Service Company. An exhibit of electric water heaters, heat lamps, silage unloaders, and ventilating fans will be on display.

Lunch will be available at the Legion hall during the noon hour.

In the afternoon Mr. G. R. Carlisle, extension livestock specialist, will discuss the feeding and management of livestock for best results.

Everyone interested in increasing his livestock efficiency and making greater returns from his livestock operations is invited to attend.

Central High to Give Auto Driving Course

Central High School, Salem, again will offer a course in driver education to 89 students, according to A. H. Erickson, principal. Instruction will be given by Elvin L. Conway.

"Driver Education is a well established course in our school as it is in most Wisconsin high schools. We believe that the greatest contribution to reduction in accidents involving young people must come through education. Only through acquiring complete knowledge of the traffic problems as related to individual drivers and proper attitudes toward the use of such knowledge can we expect our young people to be safe users of our streets and highways," the principal declared.

Encouragement for driver education on a statewide basis has been offered for many years by the department of public instruction and the safety division of the motor vehicle department.

Satisfactory completion of the course in the classroom as indicated by a passing score of an approved state test results in the student receiving a certificate issued by the motor vehicle department. This is valid for one year and is accepted by the driver's license examiner in lieu of knowledge test when applying for a permit to learn to drive.

Robert F. Williams Announces Candidacy For Representative

Robert F. "Si" Williams, 41, an employee of Abbott Laboratories as manager of plant security, has announced his candidacy for representative from the eighth senatorial district to the state legislature at the Republican primary.

Williams, who led the Waukegan city ticket in vote getting for precinct committeeman, and for state convention delegate in 1949 and 1953, has been a member of the Republican party for 20 years.

He is a member of the committee on federal-state relations for the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

He is treasurer of Waukegan on a part time basis; treasurer for the city schools, police and fire pension funds, and other funds of equal trust.

Williams, the father of five children, enlisted in the Navy two weeks after Pearl Harbor, and was honorably discharged in October after Japan surrendered.

Gas, Electric Increase Started on February 1

The new rate increases for Commonwealth Edison Company and its Public Service Company division which were effective with meter readings starting February 1 will not apply for service prior to January 1.

The company issued the following statement: We have advised the Illinois Commerce Commission that we will not apply the new rate increase for service prior to January 1.

We have a large number of customers—industrial and large commercial—whose meters are read monthly.

This decision not to apply the new rates for use prior to January 1 will apply equally to all customers including residential and small commercial whose meters are read bi-monthly.

This means all use in December will be billed at the old rates. It applies to both electric and gas customers.

New Edition of State "Rules of the Road" Distributed Monday

Springfield, Ill. — Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter today announced the publication of a completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet issued by his office. Distribution will be started the first of next week, he said.

The new booklet summarizes Illinois traffic laws and operator and chauffeur licensing procedures. Secretary Carpenter said. It places considerable emphasis on the state's new Driver License Act, passed by the 1953 session of the General Assembly, explaining the law and pointing out the violations which may result in a driver losing his license.

New illustrations are used liberally throughout the booklet to help drivers understand traffic safety rules and practices easily, Mr. Carpenter said.

"Rules of the Road" can be used as an instruction book for persons just learning to drive as well as for "refresher" study by those who have driven for many years, Secretary said. In addition to calling attention to traffic laws, it contains many tips on traffic safety to help drivers avoid situations which might result in accidents, Mr. Carpenter said.
